

Have your say on health and social care commissioning intentions for 2018/19

Overview

Every year local health and care organisations set their plans and priorities (known as commissioning intentions) for the year ahead.

To reflect closer working across Guildford and Waverley, North West Surrey and Surrey Downs Clinical Commissioning Groups (CCGs) and Surrey County Council, as well as work happening across the wider Surrey Heartlands area, this year we have developed joint commissioning intentions for health and social care.

These intentions, or plans, reflect our priorities for health and social care across a range of areas and set out how we will commission care that meets the needs of the local population. They also summarise how we will achieve the NHS' national priorities.

We have already sought the views of GP practices, health and social care providers and other partners, who have helped shape our thinking and now we are inviting local people and wider stakeholders to have their say.

Through this survey we welcome your feedback on our plans, particularly any comments on any areas or issues that you feel we may not be addressing.

The survey has been designed in chapters so you can choose which areas you want to comment on, rather than needing to complete every section, depending on their relevance to you or your organisation. The survey closes on 18 February 2018 so please share your comments by then.

We will analyse all the feedback we receive and the findings will inform our final joint commissioning intentions, which will be published in April 2018. All analysis and reporting will be aggregated and anonymised.

We look forward to receiving your feedback.

Printed copies of the summary document and the survey can be requested by calling 01372 201732 or sending an SMS text to 07747 476511.

Introduction

This consultation is organised into a number of short sections, or pages, each containing a few questions on the different services we commission.

Firstly, we would ask that you complete the Basic Details page to tell us in what capacity you are giving us your views and then you can answer as many or as few of the remaining pages as you wish, in any order, which means you need not answer questions on pages that aren't relevant to you.

To answer questions on any subject, please click on its page title in the table of contents below. For your convenience, on each page of the consultation you will find the relevant pages of the Commissioning Intentions summary document. You can also see the whole document below by clicking on Commissioning Intentions Summary.

When you are ready to submit your responses, please send this completed survey to:
